Short Bio

Yvonne Hofstetter, 1966, jurist and essayist, started her career in information technologies in 1999, and serves as Managing Director to TERAMARK Technologies GmbH since 2009. The company is a leader in Machine Learning technologies; for over 18 years, the core team develops Artificial Intelligence, analyzing large amounts of data from non-commensurable data sources and teaching intelligent machines to create optimal strategies to control diverse environmental processes.

Hofstetter is dealing with technical questions and their impact on society and politics. She is familiar with threat and risk analysis of digital technologies and business models and teaches people about the subtleties of a revolution, which is determined being very quiet: the digital revolution.

Hofstetter is presenting her thoughts about Big Data and the global advent of intelligent autonomous control algorithms in renowned media, such as F.A.Z., DIE ZEIT and numerous other media. Her books They Know Everything and The End of Democracy were published by C. Bertelsmann. Yvonne Hofstetter lives in the Wider Munich Area.
